

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The writing of this thesis has been one of the most significant academic challenges I have ever had face. Without the support, patience and guidance of the following people, this study would not have been complete. It is to them that I owe my deepest gratitude.

First and foremost, I would like to thank my major advisor, Assistant Professor Dr. Nawamin Praachanant. He spent a large amount of time on my thesis and guided me from the design of the research to the last version of each chapter. As an experienced supervisor and teacher, he knows very well when to leave me free exploring for something useful and when to bring my attention back to things with value. He hardly tells me what to do, but offers suggestions, comments, and clues for further development, leaving me enough time to reflect and digest. Undoubtedly, the knowledge I obtained from his supervision will be the most valuable assets for my academic career.

Secondly, I am grateful to my thesis co-advisor, Dr.Chokiat Jarat, who has given his valuable time, advice and his guidance contributed to the accomplishment of this study.

I would like to express the deepest appreciation to the professors who were on my thesis committee, Dr. Thanaporn Pantawee and Dr. Surachai Piyanukool, for their invaluable advice as well as detailed, helpful suggestions and valuable comments on my paper.

This thesis would not have been possible without the help from those research experts: Lecturer Sumitra Phunkulbhadee, Mrs.Jan Beekman, Mrs.Tiemjun

Tongboon, and Mrs. Tana Bowles. They always find time for my work and deal with problems in my writing, especially grammatical errors. They provided feedback and offer proof reading on a draft of this thesis.

I also thank my friends, Gregory Duffel and Victor Sweeney, for being supportive throughout my time here for helping me with proofreading my paper. I think of them as my big brothers.

Above all, I am immensely grateful to my parents and my sister. Their support, understanding love, and patience have encouraged and inspired me through this undertaking. I know I always have my family to count on when the time is rough.
