

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis could not have been completed without the constant encouragement, guidance, suggestions, criticisms, support and help from many people.

First of all, I would like to express my sincerest appreciation to Assistant Professor Dr. Nawamin Prachanant, my academic advisor. Throughout the years of my M.A. study, he was always there to offer help and advice, and to gently move me in the right direction. His kindness, patience, and understanding walked me through many difficult times. As a distinguished researcher, he was always ready and quick to advise me. The present research would not have been possible without his total support in all aspects and I am proud to have had him as my advisor.

To Dr. Kampeeraphab Intanoo, my co-advisor, and Dr. Surachai Piyanukool, I would like to extend my heartfelt appreciation for their guidance in this research with their knowledge, wisdom and insight whenever I needed their assistance.

To Dr. Chookiat Jarat, Mr. Chowit Phuwong and Mr. Michael John Connolly, my experts, I owe my deepest gratitude for their insightful comments and suggestions in data coding of the strategies used in greeting and replies to greeting. Their knowledge of the strategies used in greeting and replies to greeting was particularly useful, as was their constructive criticism and advice.

I also would like to acknowledge my special thanks to all of the hotel staff and the hotel guests as my subjects. Also, some teachers at the English program, Buriram Rajabhat University who assisted and inspired to do this thesis. Without their generosity, this study would have never been possible. There are so many people whom I would like to thank, so I do not attempt to name them all here.

I owe my greatest indebtedness to my father and my mother, Aurachon and Paruang, for their constant support, encouragement and love. Their never-failing love always strengthens and guides me whenever I feel weak and discouraged.

Last but not least, it is impossible not to express my deepest gratitude to my wonderful husband, Anucha, for his love, patience and steadfast support throughout my graduate work and research, and our beloved daughter, Kanyaphat, whose smiles have been the greatest motivation to complete this study. This degree belongs to them as much as it does to me.
